

MEDIA LABORATORY

The students of the Department of Journalism and Mass Communication are engaged in the productions of news bulletins, short fictions, Public Service Announcements and documentaries during their fifth and sixth semesters. These productions are facilitated by the department through equipments and facilities in the media laboratory. All the footage taken by the students are edited in the suit of Media Laboratory. The department is using FCP 10.0 to edit the productions. The department is also publishing a lab journal every month in odd semesters namely 'Netra'. The desktop system attached to Media Lab is used for the design and layout of the journal.

All publication and production works are completed after strict scrutiny of the faculty and special care has been taken to ensure the quality and ethical standards of final output. Apart from that, a review mechanism is also instituted to evaluate the visual productions and journals in presence of experts.
